Overview

Mark Hatch-Miller, a graduate of the Yale Law School and a former law clerk to two federal judges, is one of the country's top trial and appellate attorneys.

Mark has extensive standup trial and arbitration experience, including serving as co-lead counsel in an $86 million patent infringement jury trial where he won a take-nothing verdict for the defendant. Mark has represented clients ranging from Fortune 500 companies, such as Walmart and Nasdaq; to Dominion Voting Systems in its defamation lawsuits against Fox News and others; to smaller businesses and individuals. He has been involved in headline-grabbing matters that have attracted widespread attention from outlets such as the New York Times, CNBC, The Associated Press and LA Times.

Mark practices in a wide range of subject-matter areas, including patent infringement, trade secrets misappropriation, defamation, contracts and general commercial disputes, construction/real estate, qui tam/false claims, antitrust, securities fraud, and product liability, among other areas. He has handled pro bono matters ranging from an individual employment discrimination dispute to authoring an amicus brief filed in a high-profile Supreme Court case.

“Mark is a formidable advocate to have on your side. I have watched him face-off against many trial lawyers and Mark is always legally superior – his litigation skills are unrivaled and his ability to understand a case from big picture to the critical small details is unmatched. With Mark we know we are always in good hands.”

Jay Jani, Vice President and Chief Patent Counsel, Globus Medical Inc.

“Mark is an exceptional litigator, with terrific instincts and a matching intellect. He’s been highly effective for us, and I would recommend him to anyone facing a high-stakes legal battle.”

Sam Humphreys, CEO, London Bay Capital

PROVEN RESULTS

Whether through trial verdicts or arbitration awards, via pre-trial motion wins, or through favorable settlements, Mark regularly secures results for his clients.

Mark served as co-lead trial counsel for defendant Globus Medical, Inc., a medical device manufacturer, in an $86 million patent infringement dispute in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. Early in the case, Mark helped win a rare transfer of the case out of the Western District of Texas to Globus’s home district. At trial, Mark delivered the opening statement for Globus, presented Globus’s first witness, and won a complete victory for the defendant. The jury found that not a single one of ten accused Globus products infringed a single one of plaintiff’s three asserted patents. The plaintiff, a business owned by a Maryland doctor and his family, was represented by the #1 patent litigation firm in the United States.

Mark previously won another take-nothing defense verdict for Globus, in an earlier patent infringement dispute in the Eastern District of Texas. Mark also obtained several key pre-verdict wins in the case, including on summary judgment motions and motions to limit expert testimony. After the first Globus trial win, Mark co-wrote an article for The Corporate Counselor about his experience trying the case—and about how Globus, an out-of-state corporation, prevailed over patent infringement claims brought by a local Texas doctor.

Mark helped secure a historic $787.5 million deal for Dominion Voting Systems to resolve a $1.6 billion lawsuit it brought against Fox News and Fox Corporation over claims that Fox News and its commentators relentlessly stated that Dominion’s voting machines were at the center of a vast conspiracy in the 2020 presidential election. Mark was an instrumental trial team member – he led efforts on deposing Fox News hosts and show producers, eliciting information that was critical to the landmark outcome. Mark is now litigating similar cases on behalf of Dominion against Rudy Giuliani, Mike Lindell, MyPillow, Sidney Powell, One American News Network, and Newsmax.

Mark obtained plaintiff-side summary judgment rulings against five different defendants for client YH Lex Estates, in New York state court actions seeking to collect on a nearly $20 million debt. Mark initially won an early summary judgment ruling against one of the two guarantors of an unpaid real estate project-related loan. Mark later won a unanimous summary judgment ruling on appeal against the real estate firm defendant and the other guarantor. Watch Mark argue the appellate case here (start @23:19). Mark also won decisive plaintiff-side summary judgment rulings against two related voidable transferee defendants, and later defeated the defendants' appeals from the voidable transfer judgments. Mark's high-profile real estate cases for YH were included in TheRealDeal's list of "New York's biggest, baddest and juiciest real estate lawsuits of 2022," and have also been covered in New York Magazine's Curbed, Crain's New York Business section, and other publications.

Mark won a no-liability summary judgment ruling for Speedwell Holdings (f/k/a Selling Source) in a complex dispute over a $28.7 million commercial note. Mark also successfully defended the summary judgment result on appeal in New York's First Department.

Mark represented whistleblowers and helped the government secure a \$40.5 million settlement in a medical false claims lawsuit in New York Federal Court against Apria Healthcare Group; the whistleblowers recovered $4.34 million.

Mark secured a \$19 million settlement (approximately $12 million after fees and expenses) for a class of plaintiffs in a New York federal court price-fixing case against Coach USA Inc. and City Sights LLC, providers of "hop-on, hop-off" double-decker bus tours of New York City.
