Overview

Robin represents plaintiffs and defendants in real estate and commercial litigation. Prior to joining the firm, he completed a fellowship with Judge Sherry Radack, Chief Justice of the First Court of Appeals of Texas, then worked as a litigation attorney in Texas for nine years. Robin graduated cum laude from The University of Houston Law Center, where he received the Dean's Award for Professionalism and Legal Writing. He also served as Editor-in-Chief of the Houston Journal of Health Law and Policy. Robin received his B.A. from Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas with a major in research psychology. Before entering law school, Robin was a public speaker. In his free time, Robin likes watching soccer, enjoying Houston's vibrant culinary scene, and spending time with his wife and daughter.
