

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

DAVID MCLAUGHLIN,

Plaintiff,

v.

HOMELIGHT, INC., and DOES 1
through 20, inclusive,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:21-cv-05379-MCS-KES

ORDER RE: MOTION TO DISMISS (ECF NO. 14)

Defendant HomeLight, Inc., moves to dismiss Plaintiff David McLaughlin’s First Amended Complaint (FAC, ECF No. 13). (Mot., ECF No. 14.) McLaughlin filed an opposition brief, and HomeLight filed a reply. (Opp’n, ECF No. 16; Reply, ECF No. 19.) The Court heard oral argument on September 13, 2021.

I. REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE

HomeLight requests judicial notice of eight webpages—two news articles and six pages from its own website. (RJN, ECF No. 15.) McLaughlin does not oppose the request or question the authenticity of the documents attached thereto. (See generally Opp’n.)

1 The Court denies the request for judicial notice of the two news articles. (RJN
2 Exs. 3–4, ECF Nos. 15-3 to -4.) HomeLight cites these articles solely to provide context
3 about its business operations. (Mot. 1.) The Court does not need to consider this context
4 to decide the motions.

5 The Court grants HomeLight’s request to consider its webpages. (RJN Exs. 1–2, 6 5–8, ECF Nos. 15-1 to -2, -5 to -8.) The webpages are incorporated by reference into
7 the FAC, which extensively reproduces statements from and refers to HomeLight’s
8 website in support of the false advertising claim. See Marder v. Lopez, 450 F.3d 445,
9 448 (9th Cir. 2006) (“A court may consider evidence on which the complaint 10 necessarily relies if: (1) the complaint refers to the document; (2) the document is 11 central to the plaintiff’s claim; and (3) no party questions the authenticity of the copy
12 attached to the 12(b)(6) motion.” (internal quotation marks omitted)). The Court may 13 consider the full webpages. See Knievel v. ESPN, 393 F.3d 1068, 1076–77 (9th Cir.
14 2005) (considering webpages surrounding subject matter of lawsuit).

15 II. BACKGROUND

16 This is an action for false advertising under the Lanham Act. According to the 17 FAC, HomeLight analyzes home sales data to generate a list of the best-performing real 18 estate agents in a given area. The website presents certain representations about its 19 “custom, unbiased, data-driven recommendations.” HomeLight’s lists of the top real 20 estate agents in Agoura Hills, California do not include McLaughlin, who asserts he is 21 the agent with the highest number of transactions and gross sales in Agoura Hills over
22 the past 20 years. McLaughlin alleges that HomeLight’s website implies that it has no
23 “pay-for-play” relationship with top agents on its lists. Contrary to this implicit 24 representation, the real estate agents share part of their commission with HomeLight if 25 HomeLight refers them. (See generally FAC.)

26 III. LEGAL STANDARD

27 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) allows an attack on the pleadings for 28 “failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.” “To survive a motion to

1 dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to ‘state a
2 claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009)
3 (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). “A claim has facial 4 plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the 5 reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Iqbal, 556
6 U.S. at 678.

7 The determination of whether a complaint satisfies the plausibility standard is a 8 “context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial 9 experience and common sense.” Id. at 679. Generally, a court must accept the factual 10 allegations in the pleadings as true and view them in the light most favorable to the 11 plaintiff. Park v. Thompson, 851 F.3d 910, 918 (9th Cir. 2017); Lee v. City of Los 12 Angeles, 250 F.3d 668, 679 (9th Cir. 2001). But a court is “not bound to accept as true 13 a legal conclusion couched as a factual allegation.” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 (quoting 14 Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555).

15 IV. DISCUSSION

16 A. Statutory Standing

17 HomeLight challenges McLaughlin’s standing to sue under the Lanham Act.
18 Courts apply a two-step inquiry to determine whether a claimant has statutory standing
19 to bring a false advertising claim under the Lanham Act. First, the Court determines 20 whether the claimant’s interests falls within the “zone of interests” protected by the 21 statute. Second, the Court considers whether the defendant’s conduct proximately
22 caused the alleged harm. Lexmark Int’l, Inc. v. Static Control Components, Inc., 572
23 U.S. 118, 129–34 (2014); Redbox Automated Retail, LLC v. Buena Vista Home Entm’t,
24 Inc., 399 F. Supp. 3d 1018, 1034 (C.D. Cal. 2019) (construing Lexmark).

25 HomeLight contends that McLaughlin brings this lawsuit as an aggrieved
26 potential consumer of its real estate agent referral service, not as a direct competitor.
27 (Mot. 5–7.) The Court agrees with HomeLight that McLaughlin does not plead facts
28 supporting his conclusion that he and HomeLight are “direct competitors.” (FAC ¶ 12.)

1 However, direct competition is not required; instead, “a plaintiff must allege an injury
2 to a commercial interest in reputation or sales.” Lexmark, 572 U.S. at 131–32; see id. at 3 136 (rejecting direct-competitor test). McLaughlin identifies his injuries as “the 4 diversion of real estate customers to Defendants and their commercial partners and/or 5 loss of Plaintiff’s goodwill.” (FAC ¶ 16.) These are commercial interests within the 6 “zone of interests” protected by the statute. Cf. GOLO, LLC v. Higher Health Network,
7 LLC, No. 3:18-cv-2434-GPC-MSB, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18506, at *21–22 (S.D. Cal.
8 Feb. 5, 2019) (finding diverted sales due to defendants’ product review to be an injury 9 to a commercial interest).

10 Nonetheless, McLaughlin fails to plead facts establishing that HomeLight’s false
11 advertisements proximately caused an injury to those commercial interests. McLaughlin 12 must plead facts showing his injury “flow[s] directly from the deception wrought by the 13 defendant’s advertising”—that is, that the “deception of consumers causes them to 14 withhold trade from the plaintiff.” Lexmark, 572 U.S. at 133. McLaughlin alleges in 15 summary fashion that HomeLight’s conduct diverts potential consumers of his services
16 to other real estate agents and tarnishes his goodwill. (FAC ¶¶ 12, 16.) McLaughlin
17 avers that “he would have even more transactions but for the false and misleading 18 statements of Defendants.” (FAC ¶ 16; see Opp’n 4.) These are conclusory, speculative 19 allegations of actual cause, not plausible, concrete allegations of proximate cause.

20 The allegations in the FAC undermine an inference of proximate cause.
21 McLaughlin pleads that he conducted 12 real estate transactions in Agoura Hills in 22 2021, and that only two of the agents appearing on HomeLight’s lists conducted real 23 estate transactions in Agoura Hills this year. (FAC ¶ 9.) McLaughlin pleads no facts to 24 suggest HomeLight, by publishing purportedly inaccurate lists of top real estate agents, 25 caused the buyers and sellers in those transactions to retain those agents over him, or 26 that he lost any other transactions to other agents because HomeLight did not feature
27 him on its website. For example, McLaughlin does not plead any facts demonstrating 28 that any clients or prospective clients viewed HomeLight’s advertising, let alone that

1 the advertising influenced their decisions to retain him or another agent. (See id. ¶ 15
2 (stating that the advertising is “likely to influence” and “will influence” buyers and 3 sellers of real estate without factual support and without pleading that any buyers or 4 sellers actually were influenced).)

5 McLaughlin also does not plead any facts indicating how HomeLight’s deceptive 6 statements directly damaged his business reputation, or how its purported failure to 7 disclose its “pay-for-play” relationships with featured agents injured him in any way.
8 There are no plausible facts to support an inference of proximate cause. Cf., e.g., Maffick
9 LLC v. Facebook, Inc., No. 20-cv-05222-JD, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 89930, at *15
10 (N.D. Cal. May 11, 2021) (finding allegations of proximate cause insufficient where 11 “Maffick provided no clues about how the alleged deception . . . might have affected
12 the economic decisions by Maffick’s existing and potential customers, . . . and how 13 those decisions caused a commercial injury to Maffick’s sales or business reputation” 14 (internal quotation marks omitted)); Salinas Valley Mem’l Healthcare Sys. v. Monterey
15 Peninsula Horticulture, Inc., No. 5:17-cv-07076-HRL, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 91331, 16 at *49 (N.D. Cal. May 31, 2018) (dismissing Lanham Act claim for lack of statutory 17 standing in part because “the allegations suggest that patients continued to flock to the 18 Hospital for healthcare as a result of Rocket Farms’ alleged conduct”).

19 The Court dismisses the FAC for failure to demonstrate that McLaughlin has 20 statutory standing to pursue a Lanham Act claim. Although this issue is dispositive, the 21 Court addresses HomeLight’s other arguments in support of dismissal.

22 B. Failure to State a Claim

23 HomeLight argues that McLaughlin has not stated facts supporting four of the 24 five elements of his claim. To state a claim for false advertising under the Lanham Act, 25 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a), a plaintiff must plead: “(1) a false statement of fact by the 26 defendant in a commercial advertisement about its own or another’s product; (2) the 27 statement actually deceived or has the tendency to deceive a substantial segment of its 28 audience; (3) the deception is material, in that it is likely to influence the purchasing

1 decision; (4) the defendant caused its false statement to enter interstate commerce; and 2 (5) the plaintiff has been or is likely to be injured as a result of the false statement, either
3 by direct diversion of sales from itself to defendant or by a lessening of the goodwill
4 associated with its products.” Southland Sod Farms v. Stover Seed Co., 108 F.3d 1134,
5 1139 (9th Cir. 1997) (footnote omitted).

6 McLaughlin has not adequately stated the damages element for the reasons
7 identified in the Court’s discussion of proximate cause. McLaughlin’s allegations 8 concerning a loss of real estate transactions and goodwill are conclusory and 9 speculative. (See FAC ¶¶ 15–16.) He has not pleaded any nonconclusory facts from 10 which it may be inferred that he lost or is imminently likely to lose clients, transactions,
11 or goodwill due to HomeLight’s advertising.

12 The Court focuses on HomeLight’s argument that McLaughlin does not state
13 facts demonstrating its advertising is literally false or misleading. (Mot. 11–14, 20–24.)
14 “To demonstrate falsity within the meaning of the Lanham Act, a plaintiff may show 15 that the statement was literally false, either on its face or by necessary implication, or 16 that the statement was literally true but likely to mislead or confuse consumers.”
17 Southland Sod Farms, 108 F.3d at 1139. In addition, Lanham Act false advertising
18 claims are subject to the heightened pleading standard of Rule 9(b). See, e.g., Seoul
19 Laser Dieboard Sys. Co. v. Serviform, S.r.l., 957 F. Supp. 2d 1189, 1200 (S.D. Cal.
20 2013) (“District courts in the Ninth Circuit have held that the heightened pleading
21 standard of Federal Rule of Procedure 9(b) applies to [Lanham Act] false advertising
22 claims . . . .” (internal quotation marks omitted)). Rule 9(b) requires that a plaintiff 23 plead “what is false or misleading about [the purportedly fraudulent] statement, and 24 why it is false.” Cafasso v. Gen. Dynamics C4 Sys., Inc., 637 F.3d 1047, 1055 (9th Cir.
25 2011) (alteration in original) (quoting Ebeid ex rel. United States v. Lungwitz, 616 F.3d
26 993, 998 (9th Cir. 2010)).

27 McLaughlin pleads that HomeLight’s lists are false because the listed agents are 28 not “top” real estate agents in Agoura Hills. To illustrate the purported falsity,

1 McLaughlin avers that he made the most transactions in Agoura Hills in 2021, and that
2 he participated in the most transactions and has the highest gross sales in Agoura Hills
3 over the past 20 years. (FAC ¶¶ 9, 11.) McLaughlin’s illustration presents a straw man
4 fallacy; HomeLight’s statements do not make any representations pertaining to 5 transaction count or gross sales on their face or by necessary implication. (See id. ¶ 8.)

6 More broadly, McLaughlin does not plead any facts showing that HomeLight’s
7 identification of “top” agents is false or misleading. The terms “top,” “best performing,”
8 and “top performing” do not signify any quantifiable, objective measure of agent
9 performance. (FAC ¶ 8.) The website itself supports this interpretation. HomeLight 10 features a nonexhaustive list of “20 of the top REALTORS® and real estate agents in 11 Agoura Hills,” does not rank the listed individuals, and does not order them by 12 transaction count or gross sales. The website presents objective measures of agent 13 performance, such as transactions completed, as well as subjective information, such as 14 client reviews. HomeLight awards “[a]chievements” to individual agents that do not 15 make any representations about gross sales or transaction count on their face. (RJN Ex.
16 7 (emphasis added).) McLaughlin does not plead facts showing that his omission from 17 the list disproves HomeLight’s representations that its lists are “data-driven,”
18 “unbiased,” and the result of an analysis of “millions of home sales.” (Id. Exs. 2, 7.)

19 The fact that McLaughlin, in his own estimation and by his own metrics, believes 20 he is the number one agent in Agoura Hills does not show that HomeLight’s lists of 21 “top” agents, compiled using different measures of success, are literally false or likely 22 to mislead or confuse consumers. HomeLight’s lists emphasize both subjective and 23 objective measures of real estate agent performance, and they do not exhaustively rank
24 agents based on specific, quantifiable measures. The Court agrees with HomeLight that 25 its identification of “top” agents is nonactionable puffery too nebulous and ambiguous
26 to support a claim of false advertising. See Newcal Indus., Inc. v. Ikon Office Sol., 513
27 F.3d 1038, 1053 (9th Cir. 2008) (“[A] statement that is quantifiable, that makes a claim
28 as to the specific or absolute characteristics of a product, may be an actionable statement

1 of fact while a general, subjective claim about a product is non-actionable puffery.”
2 (internal quotation marks omitted)); cf., e.g., King Tuna, Inc. v. Anova Food, Inc., No.
3 CV 07-7451 ODW (JWJx), 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 130747, at *19–20 (C.D. Cal. Mar.
4 18, 2008) (statements that products were of “top quality” and in “top condition” were 5 nonactionable puffery); Brothers v. Hewlett-Packard Co., No. C-06-02254 RMW, 2006
6 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 82027, at *15–16 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 31, 2006) (representation that 7 product was “top of the line” amounted to nonactionable puffery); Glen Holly Entm’t,
8 Inc. v. Tektronix, Inc., 100 F. Supp. 2d 1086, 1096–97 (C.D. Cal. 1999) (statement that 9 “Lightworks systems are still favored by many of Hollywood’s top editors” was 10 nonactionable puffery).

11 McLaughlin does not respond to HomeLight’s challenge to the “pay-for-play”
12 component of his claim, indicating he concedes the challenge. (Opp’n 5.) See, e.g.,
13 John-Charles v. California, 646 F.3d 1243, 1247 n.4 (9th Cir. 2011) (deeming issue 14 waived where party “failed to develop any argument”); City of Arcadia v. EPA, 265 F.
15 Supp. 2d 1142, 1154 n.16 (N.D. Cal. 2003) (“[T]he implication of this lack of response 16 is that any opposition to this argument is waived.”). The website clearly states that real 17 estate agents HomeLight refers through its website provide a referral fee to HomeLight.
18 (RJN Ex. 6.) HomeLight discloses its economic relationship with listed agents, so 19 nondisclosure cannot support McLaughlin’s claim.

20 At the hearing and in his brief, McLaughlin argued that the real estate agents on 21 HomeLight’s lists are not literally in Agoura Hills. (Opp’n 6.) This theory of falsity is 22 not clearly pleaded in the FAC. (See FAC ¶ 16 (indicating that listed agents “cannot 23 even be classified as real estate agents in Agoura Hills” without indicating which part 24 of the classification is false).) McLaughlin does not give HomeLight fair notice of this 25 component of the claim. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555; see also Schneider v. Cal. Dep’t. of 26 Corr., 151 F.3d 1194, 1197 n.1 (9th Cir. 1998) (“In determining the propriety of a Rule
27 12(b)(6) dismissal, a court may not look beyond the complaint to a plaintiff’s moving 28 papers, such as a memorandum in opposition to a defendant’s motion to dismiss.”). In

1 any event, McLaughlin fails to plead facts establishing how the statement is false or 2 misleading. Cafasso, 637 F.3d 1055. McLaughlin does not plausibly plead how 3 identifying an individual as a “top real estate agent in Agoura Hills” on its face or by 4 necessary implication means that the agent has a residence or office in Agoura Hills, or 5 that the individual previously conducted transactions in Agoura Hills. These strained
6 interpretations of the phrase are unconvincing. As the Court posited at the hearing, a 7 more reasonable, obvious understanding of the phrase is that identified agents are 8 willing and authorized to represent clients in Agoura Hills. McLaughlin conceded at the 9 hearing that agents licensed in California are authorized to represent clients in Agoura
10 Hills. Even if this theory were pleaded, it would not be plausible. See Eclectic Props.
11 E., LLC v. Marcus & Millichap Co., 751 F.3d 990, 996 (9th Cir. 2014) (“[W]hen faced 12 with two possible explanations, only one of which can be true and only one of which 13 results in liability, plaintiffs cannot offer allegations that are merely consistent with their 14 favored explanation but are also consistent with the alternative explanation.” (internal 15 quotation marks omitted)).

16 McLaughlin fails to plead facts demonstrating that any of HomeLight’s
17 statements are, or plausibly could be, literally false or misleading, so the Court need not 18 consider HomeLight’s challenges to the deceptiveness and materiality of the identified
19 statements. (Mot. 14–17.)

20 C. Doe Defendants

21 HomeLight asks the Court to dismiss the Doe defendants. (Mot. 24.) McLaughlin
22 does not respond to this argument. (See generally Opp’n.) The Court deems this 23 component of the motion unopposed. See John-Charles, 646 F.3d at 1247 n.4; City of 24 Arcadia, 265 F. Supp. 2d at 1154 n.16. Although asserting claims against fictitiously 25 named defendants is proper in some circumstances, the practice is disfavored in the 26 Ninth Circuit. Gillespie v. Civiletti, 629 F.2d 637, 642 (9th Cir. 1980); Ticketmaster
27 L.L.C. v. Prestige Entm’t W., Inc., 315 F. Supp. 3d 1147, 1158 (C.D. Cal. 2018). Local 28 Rule 19-1 prohibits litigants from filing complaints with more than 10 fictitiously

1 named parties. The FAC names 20 Doe defendants without asserting any substantive
2 allegations about their role in the alleged Lanham Act violation. (See FAC ¶ 6.)
3 McLaughlin has not stated a plausible claim as to the Doe defendants, so the Court
4 dismisses the claim against them. Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678.

5 D. Leave to Amend

6 “The court should freely give leave [to amend] when justice so requires.” Fed. R.
7 Civ. P. 15(a)(2). “This policy is to be applied with extreme liberality.” Hoang v. Bank
8 of Am., N.A., 910 F.3d 1096, 1102 (9th Cir. 2018) (internal quotation marks omitted).
9 “Courts may decline to grant leave to amend only if there is strong evidence of ‘undue
10 delay, bad faith or dilatory motive on the part of the movant, repeated failure to cure
11 deficiencies by amendments previously allowed, undue prejudice to the opposing party
12 by virtue of allowance of the amendment, [or] futility of amendment, etc.’” Sonoma
13 Cnty. Ass’n of Retired Emps. v. Sonoma County, 708 F.3d 1109, 1117 (9th Cir. 2013)
14 (alteration in original) (quoting Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962)).

15 McLaughlin already amended his claim once to allege additional facts to support 16 his Lanham Act claim. Despite the amendment, McLaughlin failed to cure the 17 deficiencies in the claim. Based on HomeLight’s arguments in the motion, the Court 18 concludes that McLaughlin’s claim borders on frivolous. Having considered the 19 arguments of counsel at the hearing on how McLaughlin would amend his claim if given 20 the opportunity, the Court is satisfied that McLaughlin cannot plead facts to support a 21 Lanham Act claim on the basis of HomeLight’s advertising on its website. Weighing 22 the Foman factors, the Court denies leave to amend in light of the futility of amendment 23 and prior failure to cure deficiencies by amendment.

24 ///

1 V. CONCLUSION

2 The Court grants the motion and dismisses the FAC without leave to amend and 3 with prejudice. The Court directs the Clerk to enter judgment and close the case.

4
5 IT IS SO ORDERED.

6
7 Dated: September 17, 2021

---

8 MARK C. SCARSI
9 UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28