With the trial of a generation captivating the nation, ABC News needed an authority on the psychology of juries. Millions of viewers were following the O. J. Simpson murder trial, and ABC wanted to show America how jurors really decide cases. It tracked down a heralded Texas trial lawyer known for his use of mock trials, Bill Carmody, who was busy preparing a long-shot case for a fired employee of a large steel company. ABC filmed Bill's presentation of the evidence to the mock jurors as well as their deliberations. The network used the footage...and so did Bill. He played ABC's tape of the mock jury's deliberations at an eleventh hour mediation session – and his client walked away with a substantial settlement.

He is a permanent member of Susman Godfrey's Executive Committee and heads its New York office. RECENT WORK

- In the epic clash over self-driving car technology that pitted Google/Waymo against Uber, Bill stepped in shortly before trial to defend Uber. Although Waymo sought damages of almost $2 billion, Bill and his team got all of Waymo's experts' damages opinions struck. After Bill's public and private opening statements and the presentation of four days of evidence to a federal jury in San Francisco, this high-profile case ended in a favorable settlement. Benchmark Litigation awarded Bill and his team the National Impact Case of the Year for their work. - For General Electric, Bill successfully tried a contract case before a jury in the Southern District of New York, leading to a judgment in favor of GE worth more than $160 million.
- On behalf of a pharmaceutical industry whistleblower, Bill and his team prosecuted novel anti-kickback claims in the Novartis qui tam litigation that resulted in total settlements of $465 million – which for a case of its kind is the largest recovery ever. Click for Bloomberg interview.

- The City of Baltimore – whose citizens are more likely to die of an opioid overdose than those of nearly any other city in the country – retained Bill and recently filed suit to hold opioid manufacturers and distributors responsible for the harm they've done to the city. Click for press coverage.
- As co-lead counsel in the nationwide LIBOR antitrust litigation, for Yale University and a class of purchasers of LIBOR-based instruments, Bill and his team have led a fight through the United States Supreme Court to overcome Defendants' motions to dismiss Plaintiffs' price-fixing claims, certify a national litigation class, and secure settlements so far with 4 of the 16 Defendants for $590 million. - Bill and his team won a summary judgment that was upheld on appeal in late 2017 by the New Jersey Supreme Court for Dan Loeb and his hedge fund Third Point in the Fairfax litigation, where plaintiffs sought damages of $8 billion. Click for press coverage.

BET YOUR BUSINESS LITIGATION

Whether representing plaintiffs or defendants, Bill puts his money where his mouth is by betting on his ability to win for his clients. A pioneer in structuring result-driven fee deals, he aligns his interests with those of his clients by making his fees dependent on the success he earns – and not on hours billed. It's a creative approach to billing in a profession that doesn't often stray outside the box. Case Studies

That's never been a problem for Bill, whose bold and creative trial tactics have earned the respect of his peers, the media, and legal educators. Most recently he was elected to Law360's esteemed 2019 Trials Editorial Advisory Board. SELECTED CASE BRIEFS

Dare To Be Different

"I've dealt with lots of trial lawyers and, by far, Bill Carmody is the best I've ever seen."

In a huge defense victory, Bill orchestrated events outside the lawsuit to defeat a local hero in his hometown court. Carmody's client, a Dallas investment brokerage, got sued for over $50 million. A loss was sure to break the company. The plaintiff was a "big fish" businessman who had sued Bill's client in his "small pond," the little town of Rockport, Texas.

The case stood second on the trial docket. If the first case went as set, Carmody's case would be bumped for months. A postponement could have cost the brokerage an advantage it had gained during discovery: Although Bill had deposed all of the opponent's experts, he had shielded his client's key expert from deposition. So, the opposition was ill prepared for the expert's trial testimony. If the case was reset, the opposition would be able to depose the expert and erase their disadvantage.

To prevent this, Bill took the unprecedented step of brokering a deal in which his client funded a $180,000 settlement of the first case on the docket. This enabled Carmody's case to be tried while his client still had the edge. Bill did go to trial and won a resounding take-nothing judgment – and jury debriefing confirmed the deciding role of the key expert's testimony. Bill's client also won a counterclaim of almost $700,000.

Despite the plaintiff's vigorous attempts to overturn the take-nothing judgment, this remarkable victory withstood appellate scrutiny; it was affirmed by both the Corpus Christi Court of Appeals and the Texas Supreme Court. Wowed with Carmody's results throughout the trial and appellate process, the company's CEO remarked: "I've dealt with lots of trial lawyers and, by far, Bill Carmody is the best I've ever seen." Bill Woodruff, CEO, Wm. K. Woodruff and Co., Dallas, TX.

David Beats Goliath

By uncovering evidence of commercial fraud, Bill helped a small contractor conquer a multi-national conglomerate. This "David v. Goliath" scenario pitted Carmody's plaintiff client against one of the world's largest oil companies. The case centered around the defendant's refusal to pay for refinery construction work performed by the plaintiff in El Paso. But Bill capitalized on then-favorable venue rules to hold the case more than 800 miles away, in Beaumont – where the oil company had recently laid off hundreds of workers.

The case was originally viewed only as a million-dollar breach of contract claim; however, Carmody identified a wholly different type of claim that his client's previous lawyers had missed. It capitalized on the oil company's most vulnerable conduct – its reckless disregard for worker safety. The argument was novel: The defendant's false assurances of safe working conditions inside crude oil towers constituted fraudulent misrepresentations. While the damages of the workers who suffered illnesses were obvious, much less obvious was his client's fraud damages, in the form of increased workers compensation premiums. After an arduous 2-month trial – featuring a paperless, multi-media presentation, complete with an in-court full-size model of a quarter section of a crude oil tower – the jury found that the oil company committed fraud and awarded Bill's client over $61 million.

To cash in on this big verdict, Bill quickly negotiated a substantial confidential settlement on behalf of his client. The client's reaction to this happy ending? "Any firm can supply lots of bodies. I'd rather have just one brain like Bill Carmody's." Jerry Strickland, CEO, AltairStrickland, Inc., Houston, Texas.

Eleventh Hour Save

"It's never too late to bring in Bill Carmody."

In a perfect world, a lawyer would always have unlimited time and resources to prepare for trial. But the world is not perfect and, often, time is not on your side. In a case where he suited up for the defense, Carmody demonstrated the experience and guts required to take over and win big at the eleventh hour.

The case arose when a life insurance company was sued in a class action case by 25,000 of its policyholders. The plaintiff class alleged that the insurer had breached the terms of its policies, causing the plaintiffs to be overcharged for their insurance. The class sought $108 million in damages. In this bet-your-company case, a loss could have wiped out the company's net worth – and forced a shutdown.

The case had been pending for five years, as the insurance company was represented by a large, full-service law firm. But with the make-or-break trial looming, the insurance company decided it needed a proven trial lawyer – someone who made his reputation in the courtroom.

So, just 6 days before trial, the insurer asked Carmody to try the case. Carmody quickly learned the case cold, devised the trial strategy, and presented the case during an eight-day jury trial. The jury promptly and unanimously delivered a complete defense verdict – and the case was dismissed. Given a new lease on life, the company heaved a sigh of relief and its General Counsel praised Carmody's command: "Just six days before trial, most lawyers would have refused to take the case. But Bill Carmody thought of, and seized upon, every tactical advantage. Bill was a clutch performer winning us an incredible trial victory." Bryan R. Newcombe, General Counsel, Legal & General America, Inc., Rockville, Maryland.
