Litigation

fraud, insider trading, and more, has established him as a key figure in high-stakes litigation.

Seltzer's expertise in antitrust actions is exemplified by his leadership in the In Re: Libor-Based Financial Instruments Antitrust Litigation. This case, arising from the LIBOR-rate fixing scandal, has seen Seltzer help secure substantial recoveries totaling $781 million to date for the class he represents. He is also at the forefront of the In re: National Football League's "Sunday Ticket" Antitrust Litigation, having secured class certification for plaintiffs in a case that is set for trial.

His dedication extends beyond the courtroom to improving the legal system and increasing access to justice. Seltzer's involvement in civic and legal organizations, including his service as President of the Legal Aid Foundation of Los Angeles and the Ninth Judicial Circuit Historical Society, reflects his commitment to societal improvement.

Seltzer's legal prowess is widely recognized. He has been ranked by Chambers, named a Global Thought Leader in competition law, and inducted into Law Dragon's Hall of Fame. His work in the Moehrl v. National Association of Realtors case, challenging real estate sales practices, underscores his ability to tackle significant legal challenges with national implications.

"The In re Real Estate Commission Antitrust Litigation is of national significance and involves challenges to long-standing real estate sales practices that plaintiffs claim imposed overcharges on home sellers across the country," Seltzer said. "The plaintiffs defeated defendants' motions to dismiss brought on a variety of grounds and obtained class certification, overcoming defendants' hard-fought opposition."

Throughout his career, Seltzer has been a champion of protecting free and open competition and has been recognized for his outstanding contributions to antitrust litigation. His recognition by various esteemed organizations highlights his standing as a top lawyer in complex litigation and his commitment to advancing legal standards and practices.

Looking ahead, Seltzer said "It is encouraging to see an increasing recognition of the importance to our nation of the vigorous enforcement of the antitrust laws."
